It's not enough to have good ideas, or to create unusual events. You also need to present them in an interesting way to the public. space and place can show you how to do that. Eugene has spoken all over Europe on creativity and a playful approach to celebrating the city. Among his gigs were 3 TED Talks, a lecture to the UN on Optimism, interviews on the Gartenbaukino stage and in MAK & Funkhaus, closing fest of steirischer herbst 2016, and regular teaching in the Spatial Planning Department of Vienna Technical University.

He can present to your group or conference on...

Rebellious Optimism

Remixing the City (branding and urban storytelling)

Fear & Fail (about learning from mistakes and having the courage to continue)

Why some ideas go viral, & most do not (originally made to a biology seminar in Hamburg)

Why we all should Walk more in Cities, for creativity

Why we should walk more, to develop community and belonging (first given to the UN Sustainable Urban Mobility unit)
